The foundation was criticized earlier in the day by Dr. John Lester Reichert, chairman of the Child Health Committee of the Chicago Medical Society, who claimed the foundation junked a Jan. 10 agreement which he said provided for local health departments and medical societies to decide how to administer the vaccine.

"The medical profession resents the implication that it is motivated pulsory mass treatment," Dr. Reicher said.

"The children in the first and second grade of primary schools were selected for the program because of high incidence of paralytic poliomyelitis in this group and their accessibility as organized units within the schools, keeping in mind the limitations on the amount of vaccine to be available

The foundation said it interpreted this to mean "that the vaccine be administered in organized clinics" and further told the health officers:

"If some other plan for the administration of the vaccine in local communities is to be followed. the national foundation must be advised of such plan in detail and must receive assurances that the vaccine it is supplying will be offered to all children in the designated age groups, and only these children, and that there will be no charge for the product."

The results of last summer's Salk vaccine trials will be anounced April 12.

You Don't Have To Feel Sick To Be Sick

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (A) - You don't have to feel sick to be sick. That was the finding of the University of Michigan medical school in examinations of 500 business executives who got company-paid checkups at University Hospital.

Forty-one per cent of the 500 were sick and didn't know it, and 25 per cent of these needed treatment immediately. About 45 per cent of the sick men were found to have stomach disorders, while another 24 per cent were found to have cardio-vascular (heart or blood vessel) trouble. Four of the executives who thought they were perfectly healthy were found to have cancer, and one was found to have tuberculosis. Three were diabetic, 12 had gallstones, and 16 peptic ulcers.

And a medical school report said: 'Significant new disease appeared each year in 13 to 20 per cent of the subjects."

FORT AFIRE

YPSILANTI, Mich. (A)-Someone reported "Fort White Flag" afire. Firemen were unfamiliar with a fort, but wheeled out an aerial ladder truck among two it sent, just in case. Fort White Flag turned out to be a children's playhouse high in a tree. The aerial ladder didn't do any good, though. It broke a driveshaft en route.
